PERSPECTIVES IN BLACK

The "black movement," "black condition," "black struggle," have been frequently used along with other terms during the past decade to describe the quest for black advancement. Most Americans by now feel that they have become acquainted with some aspect of black existence.

Certainly, the mass media has played a large part in bringing to public awareness many of the crucial events and developments in recent years in the black communities. However, with the current trend toward malignant rather than benign neglect, conservative reaction, and racist resurgence, it is once again necessary to explore the dimensions of black life.

Vital questions still remain to be answered; such as: Have there been real gains made in closing the income gap? What about upgrading job positions, housing, and public services? Has increased black political strength improved ghetto life?

While making no pretense to have complete answers to these and other demanding questions, KPFK has geared its special programming during August to at least providing what we call some Perspectives in Black. Mondays at 3:00 pm and Wednesdays at 10:00 pm the station will air a series of documentaries examining: the black middle class, the black working class, the issues of Affirmative Action, and Busing. In addition, feature material will be presented which also touches on areas of concern to the black community.

"Strawberry Shortbread"

Pat Benson hosted this program on Open Journal and on KVST and now finds herself regularly ensconced on the 2nd and 4th Thursdays of the month at 3 pm. Strawberry Shortbread is made up of children and education; bi-lingual and multi-cultural. Pat Benson is a black woman with children in the Los Angeles Public Schools. She is active in parents' groups and works with the American Friends Service Committee in their attempts to stop the arbitrary use of suspension and expulsion. For a multi-faceted look at education and culture, tune in Strawberry Shortbread.

SUBSCRIPTIONS

BILLING

Members of the 3729 Club and those being billed monthly: the computer will bill you when you are due. PLEASE wait for a bill. Returning the bill with your payment will insure crediting your account correctly, and save us the labor and expense of looking up your account to see what went wrong.

Sending in a payment without a bill or renewal form costs more to process than the cost of printing and mailing the form to you. If you do not receive a bill when you think you should, drop us a card about it, and we'll check out the account. You may be paid ahead or may not be down for periodic billing.

MOVING

The FOLIO will NOT follow you automatically when you move. It will be returned to us with your new address on it—after a few weeks—and we will change your address, but probably not in time for the following FOLIO. So if you don't want to miss a month or two, fill out the "moving" coupon on the inside back page. If we receive it before the middle of the month, you won't miss one Folio. (We get 500-1000 address changes a month, so your advance notice saves us a lot of postage charges and "no Folio" phone calls.) Thank you.

RENEWAL AND MAILING—UPDATING PROCEDURES

The Folio is now being mailed between the 15th and 20th of the month. If you have been on the machine-labeled mailing list, have not moved recently, and are not lapsed, you should receive the Folio before the first of the month. If you don't (and do not have an outside ripoffable mailbox) contact your local Postmaster about delivery.

First renewal notices are sent out one month ahead of expiration. You will receive your last Folio with the second renewal notice about the beginning of the month your expiration date is up. This allows you to respond before the 2nd Wednesday of the month.

2nd Wednesdays are the key dates in subscription processing as anything processed by then is sent up to the computer, and all up-dated bills, renewals, and the Folio mailing list for the next month are printed and returned to us the following Monday. Folios are addressed and mailed by the end of that week.

As you can see, an address change or payment received by the 2nd Wednesday will take effect the next month. One day later, the same information will appear one month later.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO ALL BLIND KPFK SUBSCRIBERS

The Folio is available on cassette tape (returnable) to all blind subscribers to KPFK. If you would like to receive the Folio in this form, please tear off the address label on the back of your Folio and send it along with a note stating that you would like to be on the special blind mailing list. Within two months (hopefully) you will be receiving your complete program guide on cassette.

FILM OF THE MONTH CLUB

XALA

directed by Ousmane Sembene

in French and Wolof with English subtitles---123 minutes

Xala received extraordinary reviews following its screenings at the Moscow and New York Film Festivals. Since then we have waited in vain for a Los Angeles showing, and we've craved it for the Film Club. We thank New Yorker Films for their generosity in making it available. We quote the New Yorker catalog for the program notes.

"Ousmane Sembene is the most important figure in the establishment of an independent African cinema and, to date, his continent's only filmmaker of international stature. A self-educated Senegalese, Sembene was a longshoreman and union organizer, then a novelist of some repute before becoming a filmmaker. His background is an important influence on his films, which reflect a mixture of sophistication and anti-intellectualism.

"Xala (pronounced ha-la), Ousmane Sembene's fourth feature film, is also his first to achieve the distinction of being censored in his own country (the print distributed by New Yorker Films, however, is complete and uncut). Although one cannot condone this action, one can certainly understand it. Xala seems calculated to give nightmares to the ruling class of Senegal -- or of nearly any emerging African nation, for that matter. Forsaking the easier targets of European exploitation and racism that characterized Black Girl and Emitai, Sembene here zeroes in on a far touchier subject: the myth of African independence, the wholesale blackfacing of white colonial policies by African leaders pompously declaring themselves to be 'liberators.'

"As is often the case with the most excruciating social criticism, Xala is a satire -- and quite a funny and savage one, too. 'Africa is a land of contrasts,' as textbooks and official documentaries are so fond of declaring. But Sembene goes them one better. The Africa we see in Xala is a surreal crazy-quilt of native superstitions and white status symbols, an illegitimate freak conceived under a full moon by a French bureaucrat and the daughter of a witch doctor. The film opens with black dignitaries in tuxedos and limousines suavely taking over the Chamber of Commerce while a wild crowd of dancers and barebreasted girls lends support with bloodcurdling screams on the steps outside. The film's central character proudly carries a briefcase, speaks French rather than the native Wolof, drinks only bottled water imported from Europe, and can't sleep without the air conditioner on, but he also has three wives and goes running to a variety of marabouts, soothsayers, and charm-dispensers as soon as trouble strikes. Even the Star Band of Dakar is composed of a gleaming saxophone, African drums, an electric guitar, and a native chanter. And so it goes, until an amazed and zootsuited pickpocket finally emerges as one of the most respected members of the community.

"We first see El Hadji Abdou Kaber Beye, the hero of the tale, at the height of his career. His thriving import business has earned him a place in the newly-elected, all-African Chamber of Commerce. He is about to crown his success with a third wife, a beautiful young girl no older than his eldest daughter. But on the wedding night, disaster strikes; the self-assured El Hadji cannot consummate the marriage. Someone has evidently slapped him with the Xala, a curse rendering its victim impotent. Who could do this thing to El Hadji? One of his jealous senior wives? His radical, disapproving daughter? Some old, already-forgotten enemy?

"From this point on, it is only a matter of time until El Hadji's affairs crumble into ruin. It seems as if the whole world knows of his conjugal problems. While he runs around emptying his wallet on potions and panaceas, El Hadji's business declines and finally goes under. Foreclosed, deserted by his young bride, clutching handfuls of charms, his checks ricocheting all over Senegal, he is finally drummed out the Chamber of Commerce as a disgrace to the business community. El Hadji's impotence is mirrored in a group of wandering beggars and cripples, whose path eventually crosses his in a surprising and shocking conclusion, dutifully censored in the Senegalese Republic.

BASIC INFORMATION

The 3729 Club (3729 is our address) is a group of subscribers who give $65 a year (or $70 in payments) to KPFC.

Besides the subscription to the Folio and tax deduction, there are two special "premiums" for club members.

1) Membership in the Community Consumers Council -- a non-profit membership association through which one can save money on nearly all consumer items plus such services as group legal, dental, medical and auto insurance.

2) Membership in the Film of the Month Club in which a member and guest can attend at least one film per month for free; preview films, classic films and/or esoterica.

"By the end of the film, El Hadji's impotence has grown much greater than just an inability to please his sulking young bride. It is the impotence of Senegal and all young African nations, an impotence which comes from a dependence on white technology, an impotence which has failed to remove the class imbalances and bureaucratic paralysis that have ruled Africa for over a hundred years. The charms and fetishes which El Hadji totes around are ultimately more real than the technological fetishism on which African nations build their Third World sand-castles. As one of Sembene's countrymen commented, 'It is true. All of Senegal has the Xala.'"

2:00 ELDRIDGE CLEAVER: THEN AND NOW

In September, 1975, a few months before he surrendered to U.S. authorities, Eldridge Cleaver talked via trans-Atlantic telephone to Curtis Taylor of Rolling Stone and WBAI's Paul McIsaac. Former Information Minister of the Black Panther Party, best-selling novelist Cleaver apparently underwent sweeping changes during his 6½ year exile. In this last public statement before he disappeared behind bars again, he describes himself as a conservative, calls for improving those institutions he labels the "American Dream," strengthening the armed forces against what he now perceives as a threat to democracy from Russia, China and Cuba. Also on the program are selections from a 1970 interview done by a Danish journalist highlighting the changes in Cleaver's thinking.

Misery

Play the blues for me.
Play the blues for me.
No other music
'Li ease my misery.

Sing a soothin' song.
Said a soothin' song,
Cause the man I love's done
Done me wrong.

Can't you understand,
O, understand
A good woman's cryin'
For a no-good man?

Black gal like me,
Black gal like me
'S got to hear a blues
For her misery.

I, Too

I, too, sing America
They send me to eat in the kitchen
When company comes,
But I laugh,
And eat well,
And grow strong.

Tomorrow,
I'll be at the table
When company comes.
Nobody'll dare
Say to me,
"Eat in the kitchen,"
Then.

Besides,
They'll see how beautiful I am
And be ashamed

I, too, am America

The New Los Angeles FREE PRESS

FREE LOVE, FREE BEER, FREE RENT, FREE PRESS.

TO HOSTILE OBSERVERS of the events of the Sixties, this was about the size of it. For those in the eye of the storm, however, ideas of real importance were being spread around like baseball cards, hand to hand, with a remarkable enthusiasm. As the moguls of the six-o'clock news and the daily newspapers had difficulty keeping up, it was no real surprise to see the appearance of a number of small newspapers acting as forums for these events. One of the most important of these was the Los Angeles Free Press.

If in the following we do not answer these questions to your satisfaction, or, if there are other questions relating to this publication which you would like answered, please feel free to write a letter to the editor or, if you are so inclined, even an article.

We naturally can't promise in advance to print every letter or article we receive but when you look at this issue, and particularly at those to follow, you will notice that we are not afraid to print controversial material and let the writer have his say. It is a general rule in this newspaper that if anyone has anything to say on an important community issue and can say it well, he or she will have their day in print. That is why we call ourselves the Free Press.

We of course don't plan to print material that will land the publisher and his staff in jail for libel. But, short of that area and those restrictions imposed by space in our columns and the need for journalistic balance, we plan to print every provocative, controversial and, yes, even irreverent article our writers and readers submit that is related to the civic and cultural life of our city.

This last comment brings us to another point. We are fundamentally a community newspaper. We plan to focus on Los Angeles and to a lesser extent on California affairs. We do not plan to deal with national and international events. In our opinion, there are a number of adequate newspapers and magazine available to our readers for the latter purpose while there are many areas of local life which are inadequately reported.

As everyone knows, the press in Los Angeles has a deserved reputation for being quite conservative in their editorial policies and reporting. The liberals, among whom we class ourselves, usually do not get adequate news coverage about the specific things that concern them. This is the journalistic vacuum that we plan to fill. While we are an open platform, we particularly plan to be the place where liberals can express themselves and discuss their own differences. As a newspaper we feel our particular function is to provide information to link together the various sections of our far flung liberal community in Southern California.

A question then emerges: Is the Free Press free enough to print material disagreeing with liberal organizations? Absolutely. We were confronted with precisely this situation in preparing the issue of the Free Press you are now holding. Our reporter began her story on the Bank of America versus CORE, more-or-less convinced that the bank's position was justified. We planned to print the article this way (even though the publisher has a long-standing personal relations with the civil rights movement) and then invite CORE to submit for publication a statement of its own side of the story. As it turned out, our reporter became convinced of the validity of the CORE position by the facts that emerged as she did her research. As a public newspaper free of organizational commitment, we are going to print the story as our writers call them (regardless of the personal opinions of the publisher) and then invite comment and rebuttal.

In a similar fashion, this publication is not committed to the partisan defense of any political organization, despite the political beliefs or affiliations of any of its staff members. We will present material, if necessary, "knocking" any political party, whether it be Democratic, Republican or Socialist if we feel that on the local level they are taking stands detrimental to the interests of the community.

Does this mean that this is a newspaper attempting an absolutely faceless, neutral point of view? No. The staff members presently putting this publication into print definitely maintain a liberal point of view against segregation for civil liberties, and for the use of the tax dollar in a fashion which benefits the citizenry and not the pockets of construction companies. We are definitely committed to the principles inherent in a democratic ordering of society wherein all citizens have the right to meaningfully par-

As often happens in life, the Free Press has had its ups and downs over the years, and lately there has been a good deal of speculation about the paper's present intentions. To clear the air and put our cards on the table, this seems as good a time as any to reaffirm the original goals of this newspaper as stated in the first edition given general circulation here in the summer of 1964.

Though the reader may find a certain antique flavor in the following, the ideas and aspirations expressed remain the same for the present staff. If they still make sense to you, you'll find a handy subscription form at the bottom of the page.

incipate in community political and social life. As a newspaper of the type we have been describing, we hope to add to Los Angeles life a new dimension of dominant society: a truly free press.

There is one area of commitment we do have which we feel necessitates statement. We believe very strongly that society should avoid attempts to impose arbitrary limitations upon the natural desire of the creative artist to explore in areas beyond the normal conventions of organized society. We believe that to stifle the artist may seem to be a defense of social standards but serves actually to narrow the horizons of civilization.

With this in mind, we have and will in the future come to the defense of the artist in most if not all of the obscenity cases as well as in all other cases where organized society unwisely and unjustly uses its police powers against individuals or groups.

While we have a great interest in the cultural life of the community we want to make it clear, particularly to hopeful contributors, that we are fundamentally a newspaper, and not a literary review. As a newspaper we seek in each issue to report and comment on the events ranging from city planning in its larger aspects to the removal of benches from Pershing Square. Too often the liberal is an expert on foreign policy but not sufficiently involved in the local areas in which he can make immediate progress in the circumstances of his own life.

Finally, we must bring to the attention of our reader that this Free Press costs much money to produce. Even though our writers are presently donating their valuable time and the human response of other volunteers has been most wonderful, yet it still takes hundreds of dollars each week to produce this newspaper—and there are no angels.

If this newspaper does not immediately gain the support of the community in regard to subscriptions and advertising we will very quickly have to close up our venture. We don't expect you to like or agree with every article in this newspaper (there is not one staff member who "likes" or "agrees" with all the pieces in this issue) but we do hope that you sympathize enough with our general objectives to give this newspaper a chance to prove itself. Ten thousand subscribers can support the Free Press. A hundred or more subscribers each week until the larger goal is obtained can keep the printer paid. Won't you do your part by sending in your subscription today and asking your friends to do likewise?

2:00 COMMUNISM. PARTICIPATING IN POLITICS, HOW DEEP?

One of the most confusing and disputed points in Marxist practice is that of electoral and parliamentary politics. The success of Western European participation in Communist Parties in the past five years, has sharpened the debate in the United States. The overthrow of the Chilean government has posed the strategic question in blood. This panel will explore the electoral option and the campaigns of the Socialist and Communist parties as well as working inside the Democratic party. Jim Berland moderates.

3:00 AN EVENING WITH MAYA ANGELOU

Maya Angelou, in a very special program, reads selections from her autobiographical works, recites some of her poems, sings both her own songs and traditional spirituals, and discusses her life and work with Lin Harris of WBAL. The author of I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings seeks to go beyond mere facts to the truth of each experience. The experiences reflected in her work offer ample testimony to why this Black woman, ostensibly "born to lose" has managed to triumph in virtually every field of arts, letters and life. Sexual Compulsives Anonymous, with local chapters in Los Angeles and Orange counties, is a program for men and women whose sexuality often expresses itself in societally-unacceptable (and illegal) forms, such as clandestine sex in public restrooms. While sexual compulsives are a very small minority of the larger homosexual community, their activities are often used by homophobes to discredit all gay people. Tonight, the studio guests are members of Sexual Compulsives Anonymous, who will discuss the problems, and the solutions which SCA uses in its recovery programs. Open phones
